

Episode 0: Introducing the new FDIC Podcast!

BRIAN SULLIVAN: Hi there. I'm Brian Sullivan with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Most folks know the FDIC as a government agency that insures your bank deposits and that's true. But the FDIC is so much more. It's a bank regulator, a consumer protector...a watchdog...to make sure that our banks are safe and sound and fair.

So we got this idea about launching a new podcast to untangle all the complexities of our banking world and to shed some light on how every family can become part of the financial fabric in this country.

Now, we didn't get fancy about the name—it's simply the FDIC Podcast. But in the end, we hope to have conversations with some really smart people...banking experts...about banks. But mostly your money. We hope you like it